PM Appraise

A Knowledge and Skills Assessment

Our PM Appraise - a knowledge and skills assessment tool, evaluates your employee's training needs. Understanding an individual's comprehension of standard project management methods, tools and techniques as they pertain to your projects will provide you with a clear picture of potential training needs, allowing you to select the professional development programme that will benefit both your employees and yield the highest return on your training investment.

Helping you to maximise your learning investment

By measuring the existing knowledge and skill levels of an individual or team, learning investments can be readily targeted to meet employees' needs, and therefore can speed up the development of job-related competencies.

PM Appraise® is a complete assessment tool that delivers the following:

Benefits of individual assessments:

- Measures existing knowledge levels as well, as the knowledge areas of the PMI's A Guide to the Project Management Body of Knowledge® (PMBOK® Guide 5th Edition) allowing training to be targeted
- Maximises the training investment
- Identifies the best performers and those in need of development
- Assigns projects more effectively throughout the workforce
- Provides essential information about employees' strengths and weaknesses
- Identifies the training requirements to improve capabilities

Our consultants can also provide recommendations and further insights based on analysis of the reports.

About PM Appraise

PM Appraise® measures individual project management knowledge gaps as well as departmental knowledge as a whole. The convenient, online assessment consists of 80 multiple choice questions covering 33 project management best practices, as identified by our subject matter experts. The assessment also covers the knowledge areas of the PMBOK® Guide, 5th Edition.

Key Features:

- 80 online multiple-choice questions, covering 33 project management best practices
- Assessment duration of 1.5hrs to complete
- Covers the knowledge areas of the PMBOK® Guide (5th Edition)
- Upon completion, assessment is scored and a report generated that highlights areas of improvement for both the individual and group level
- Compares the results against other professionals in the project management industry
- Prioritises group and individual learning needs based on the mappings to key project management topics

Group summary reports can also be sent to managers to assess learning needs at an organisational or departmental level.

Our expert consultants will help you translate the group summary report into a tailored learning programme for your organisation or department. Through consultation with our experts, additional mentorship or professional growth opportunities may also be identified.

The reports can also be used as a tool for determining which open enrolment classes will be the most suitable for individuals.

The PM Appraise® allows you to evaluate the needs of your team and ensures your professional development investments go towards learning activities that you know your organisation needs.
